

We asked our alumni to describe
THE SFYCA EXPERIENCE IN ONE WORD

FROM SABRINA MADISON-CANNON

Phyllis and Andrew Berwick Dean and Professor of Dance
University of Oregon School of Music & Dance

Welcome to the 25th anniversary celebration of Stangeland Family Youth Choral Academy! I'm thrilled that you are here to join us as we mark this important milestone in our flagship education program.

There is so much to say about SFYCA, but I'd like to start by thanking our beloved Oregon Bach Festival co-founders, Royce Saltzman and Helmuth Rilling, for their commitment to foster education as a main pillar of the Festival. Royce was a giant in the choral field, and his love for sacred choral music manifested itself in 1998 when he and Helmuth conceptualized the idea that would become the Youth Choral Academy. Of course, at that time, no one could have known how incredibly successful the venture would be—lasting all these years and affecting thousands of people.

It's also safe to say that Helmuth and Royce's vision to recruit Dr. Anton Armstrong was exceptional and history making. Anton's steadfast commitment to young people is astounding. He creates a community that allows young musicians to soar and develop as "servant artists"—Anton's term for musicians in service to others. Anton and his renowned philosophies are what separate SFYCA from other choral programs.

It has taken an unprecedented number of people and hours to drive SYFCA for 25 years. While I wish I could thank each one, I would be remiss if I didn't take this opportunity to mention the years of dedication from OBF staff members and advisory boards, seasonal academy staff, volunteers, and parents, as well as the Stangeland family, countless SFYCA supporters, and the University of Oregon community. The flexibility, creativity, and tenacity of all these people (and many more!) have kept the SFYCA torch burning brightly for more than two decades. We are all grateful for their tireless efforts.

As for our incredible SFYCA participants, it is so exciting to flip through this book and see the 1998 inaugural class thriving in their careers, having families of their own, and preparing the next generation to join SFYCA. So many of our alumni are working as arts professionals and music educators. And for those who went on to study other fields, they have kept connections to music by singing in community choirs and sharing their passion for music with their loved ones. It's equally thrilling to see the more recent SFYCA classes attending universities all over the country and embarking on their adult lives. We can't wait to see what your very bright futures hold for you.

The first time I thumbed through this yearbook, I got goosebumps. I hope you'll have a similar reaction (and possibly shed some tears of joy!) as you recall cherished memories, see the faces of people you haven't thought about in years, and catch up on what your fellow alumni are doing with their lives.

Thank you for attending the SFYCA 25th Anniversary Celebration and the 2023 Oregon Bach Festival. Enjoy yourselves as you experience world-class music, meet new friends, and make many more lasting memories!

VISION AND HISTORY

“ SFYCA will change your life forever... ”

ROYCE AND HELMUTH

Oregon Bach Festival Co-Founders

Oregon Bach Festival began in 1970 when Royce Saltzman, a University of Oregon professor of music, and Helmuth Rilling, a choral conductor and organist from Germany collaborated on a summer workshop of choral and organ music at the University of Oregon.

Today, OBF annually produces more than 40 concerts, events, lectures, and educational opportunities—including Stangeland Family Youth Choral Academy, Berwick Academy for Historically Informed Performance, and the Organ Institute. The Festival's original building blocks—a combination of education and performance—continue to be the foundation of OBF outreach programs.

The “experiment” of the Youth Choral Academy launched in 1998 with funding from the Hult Endowment, Smith Barney, Inc., and Symantec. Drawing primarily from students in the Lane County area, it was a two-week-long event, with students arriving in the morning and returning home at night.

The overwhelming success of the program in the first two years led the Festival to expand regionally, covering Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, and Alaska by the year 2000. By 2002, YCA was accepting participants from all four corners of the U.S., including California, Kansas, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Maine.

Stangeland Family Youth Choral Academy is one of the most important components of Oregon Bach Festival. The quality of singers continues to improve each year, and the effect of the 10-day educational experience on the lives of its participants is profound and lifelong.

Thank you to Royce and Helmuth for their collaborative vision and commitment to create this significant and distinctive program. After 25 years, it's safe to say the “experiment” was (and is!) a success.

ANTON ARMSTRONG

Founding YCA Artistic Director

In 2023, Dr. Anton Armstrong celebrates his 25th year as the founding artistic director of the Stangeland Family Youth Choral Academy. When Royce Saltzman and Helmuth Rilling first launched the idea of a youth choir in 1998, Anton Armstrong was top of the list for those who might lead the fledgling program. Since then, he has directed over 1,200 talented young vocalists hailing from all parts of the U.S., as well as abroad.

When high school singers attend SFYCA, they come together as a member of an artistic body, not as summer campers. They are expected to rise to the occasion. Armstrong's great gift is the ability to help them see that they bring something unique and valuable to the Academy, Oregon Bach Festival, and the world.

Armstrong is more than a conductor. He is a mentor to countless young people and is instrumental in changing lives. A graduate of St. Olaf College, Armstrong earned advanced degrees at the University of Illinois and Michigan State University.

He conducts and lectures around the world and leads ensembles at regional, national, and international gatherings of the American Choral Directors Association, Chorus America, National Association for Music Education, Choristers Guild, and the International Federation for Choral Music.

In 2013, Armstrong received the Saltzman Award from Oregon Bach Festival. The Festival's highest honor, the award is bestowed upon individuals who have provided exceptional levels of leadership to the organization. In 2022, Armstrong received a Distinguished Legacy Award, from the College of Fine and Applied Arts at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

Each year, a group of high school students arrives on the UO campus, full of passion for choral music and generally in possession of the usual host of adolescent anxieties. Armstrong takes each of them in hand for two weeks and they leave with confidence in their artistic ability and knowledge of their full worth as human beings.

OBF and SFYCA express deep gratitude to Dr. Armstrong for his devotion to the choral profession and for mentoring young conductors, inspiring singers, and supporting music educators in the arts.

RICHARD CLARK

Inaugural YCA Managing Director

Affiliated with the Festival since 1970, Richard Clark's most significant role began in 1998 when he was asked by Helmuth and Royce to create a special choral program for high school singers. "SFYCA would not be what it is today without Dick's contributions," said OBF co-founder Royce Saltzman. "The Festival owes Dick a great deal of gratitude for his generosity and dedication."

Dick or "DC" as many people close to him call him, was famous for his "6 Bs" speech, delivered annually at SFYCA orientation. A main design intent of the YCA program was to create a high achieving, warm, service-oriented culture and the 6 Bs distilled this message perfectly. In 2022, Richard was awarded the Festival's highest honor—the Saltzman Award—presented to those who have made exceptional contributions to OBF.

MARLA LOWEN

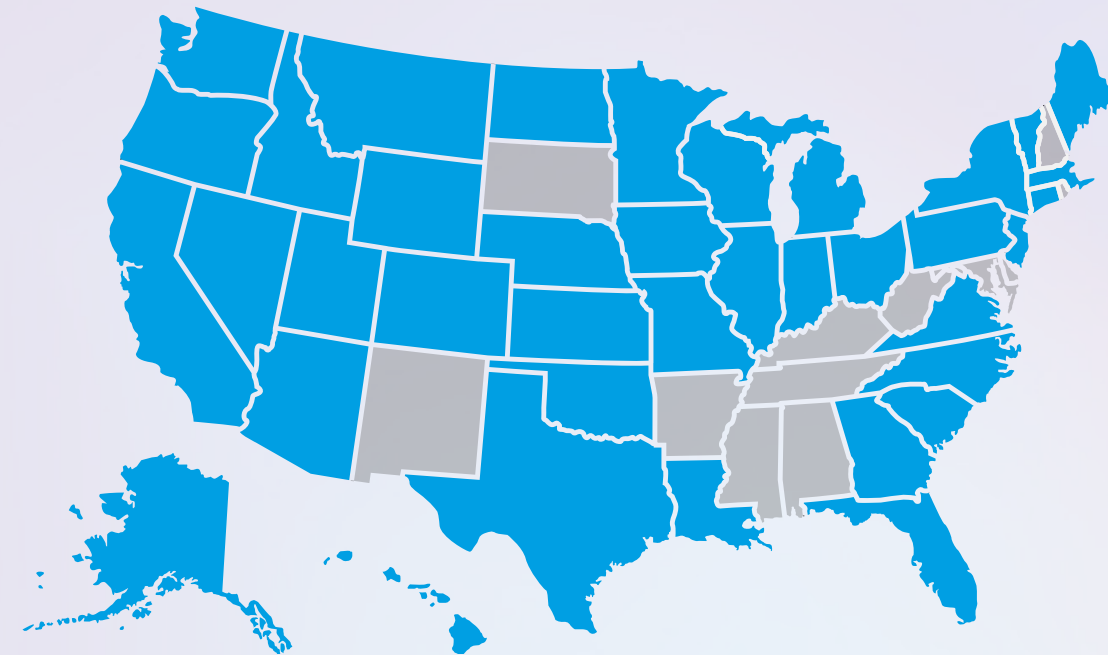

OBF Associate Director and Artistic Administrator

Marla Lowen was instrumental in assisting Richard Clark with the Youth Choral Academy in the program's early years. As OBF Associate Director and Artistic Administrator, she played a key role in recruiting students, ensuring that each year's group of aspiring vocalists attended auditions, helping them navigate the process of preparing for the Academy, and seeing that they arrived safely on campus.

Marla brought her warm sense of humor and unfailing patience to the program (and Oregon Bach Festival as a whole), deftly smoothing out last-minute wrinkles and jangled nerves.

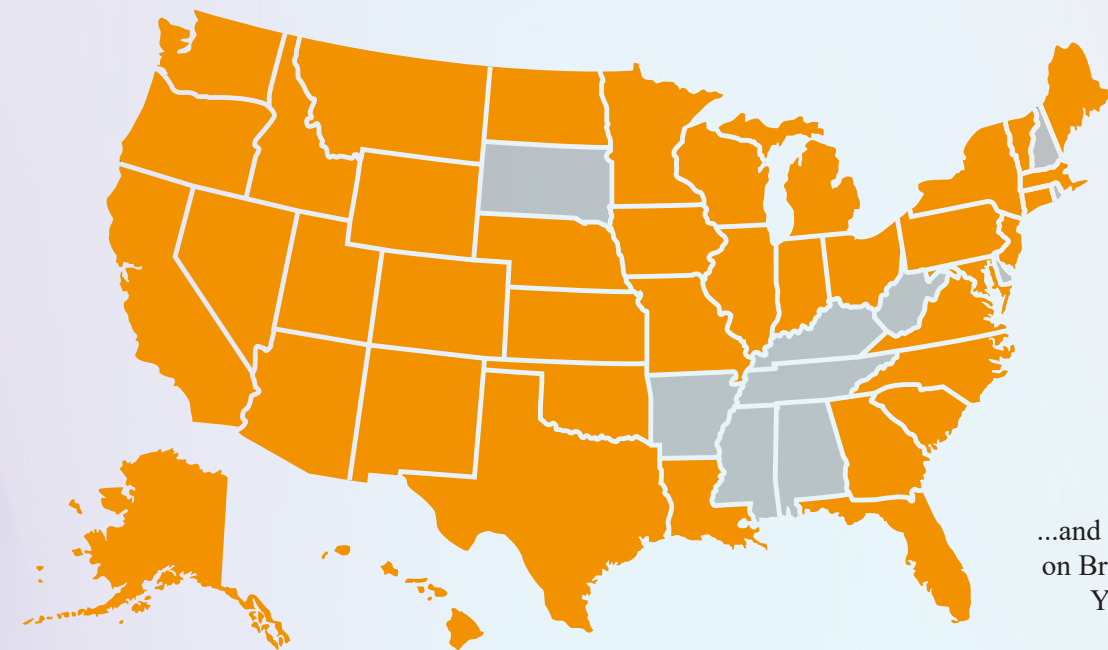

REACH AND IMPACT

Over 25 years, SFYCA participants have come to OBF from all over the country.

International:

SFYCA THROUGH THE DECADES

1998
Sixty-seven Oregon high school students become the first YCA cohort to work with Helmut Rilling and Anton Armstrong. They perform the Haydn Creation on the OBF Discovery Series with the OBF Chorus.

1999
Students from more than 20 cities and towns across Oregon participate in the second year of the program. The experience is called “life-changing” by students and their families.

2000
YCA performs on Bach’s St. Matthew Passion program and with Entrevoques as part of the International Voices program.

2001-2004

2001
Nationally renowned vocalist and conductor Bobby McFerrin joins YCA for a residency. The summer includes intensive workshops and rehearsals, a joint concert performance, and a free workshop for music educators and singers.

2002
Cantus, a 12-member professional choral ensemble, comprised of young men in their 20s, holds a residency with the fifth YCA cohort.

2003
Distinguished composer, educator, and conductor Dr. André J. Thomas brings his world-class spirituals and gospel music to a YCA residency.

2004
YCA performs Jubiabá by Carlos Alberto Pinto Fonseca under the direction of guest conductor María Guinand, professor of conducting at the Simón Bolívar University in Caracas, Venezuela.

SFYCA THROUGH THE DECADES

2006-2011

2006
The Roger and Lilah Stangeland Family Foundation supports OBF with a generous gift. YCA is officially renamed “Stangeland Family Youth Choral Academy” (SFYCA).

2007
SFYCA celebrates its 10th anniversary with more than 50 alumni and performances of Brahms’ O Schöne Nacht and the Kyrie from St. Francis in the Americas: A Caribbean Mass by Glen McClure.

2008
The chorus is featured on a performance of Bach’s Magnificat and the Bowerman: Man of Oregon program, featuring soprano Maria Jette.

2010
The Festival holds a 40th anniversary gala with SFYCA performing Bach’s Kyrie from Mass in B Minor, featuring the return of Bobby McFerrin.

2011
SFYCA gives its Portland debut at Trinity Episcopal Cathedral and at the Nike campus.

2012-2023

2012
The 15th anniversary SFYCA concert features sopranos Sonja Tengblad and Tamara Wilson and the world premiere of OBF commission, Paume, doux lit froissé by SFYCA alum and rising composer Stanford Scriven.

2017
In honor of its 20th anniversary, SFYCA performs the world premiere of Falling into Mercy by Norwegian composer Kim André Arnesen.

2022
Top high school vocalist from around the country return to SFYCA as the first post-COVID cohort. They perform Bach’s Cantata BWV 172 and participate in the OBF Choral Legacy program.

2023
SFYCA and OBF rejoice in 25 years of youth choral performances and educational opportunities.

SALTZMAN SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Support for Stangeland Family Youth Choral Academy

Royce and Phyllis Saltzman led the effort to make OBF a world leader in music education from the very inception of the Festival. SFYCA, a residential program for high school singers, has long gained the support of OBF donors.

Over the years, hundreds of donations to the OBF general fund and Saltzman Sustaining Endowment have helped provide crucial support. As the program continued to grow, so did the need for support, with more than half of the youth accepted into the Academy requiring financial assistance to participate.

In 2015, OBF announced the Royce and Phyllis Saltzman Scholarship Fund led by a $250,000 challenge gift from an anonymous donor. This generous donor has also documented a $500,000 bequest to support scholarships. Donations to these endowed funds continue to transform the lives of OBF's youngest choral singers.

OBF would like to thank the hundreds of donors, volunteers, and visionaries who have supported this unique program. A special thank you to the Stangeland family, Alan Yordy and Joan Kropf, the Grant family, and Gary Long and Rudy Saavedra for their leadership gifts.

“ Everyone here is amazing and so friendly. The community is unmatched. ”

THE YCA COMMUNITY

“Everyone’s heart was 100 percent there...”

THEREES TKACH HIBBARD

Assistant Director: 2019 - Present
BodySinging Instructor: 1998 - Present

Therees Hibbard has served as conductor, adjudicator, and clinician for numerous choral organizations throughout Great Britain, Europe, Asia, and North America. Her work as a vocal and movement specialist in the training of choral singers and conductors has created unique opportunities for her to collaborate with choirs and conductors from around the world.

Her research on enhancing choral performance through movement training has led to the development of a comprehensive choral education philosophy called “BodySinging”—most clearly demonstrated through her work with SFYCA, the St. Olaf Choir, and the American Boychoir. BodySinging includes breathing exercises, stretching, and full-range movement in a physical and vocal warm-up, and 30 minutes of vocal technique daily.

Therees has been on the SFYCA faculty since its inception, and a member of the Oregon Bach Festival Chorus for over 20 years. She is presently Associate Professor of Choral Music at St. Olaf College where she directs the Manitou Singers and St. Olaf Chamber Singers.

“ I wish Bodysinging was how I woke up every morning. Dr. Hibbard is phenomenal! ”

COLE BLUME

Associate Conductor: 2008 - 2019

Cole Blume holds degrees in music from St. Olaf College and the University of Oregon. Cole has sung as a member of the St. Olaf Choir, the Grammy-award winning ensemble Conspirare, and Festival Ensemble Stuttgart with Helmuth Rilling. He taught choral music for nine years at all levels and served Oregon Bach Festival for ten seasons as associate director of Stangeland Family Youth Choral Academy. Most recently, Cole served as director of music at Central Presbyterian Church in Eugene. His passion for storytelling in song has been honed through rich experiences outside of the concert hall, including as a pilgrim on the Camino de Santiago, a thru-hiker on the Pacific Crest Trail, and a farmer growing organic produce in the Willamette Valley.

“ It’s not just about making beautiful music, which is central to what we do of course, but it’s also about creating what Anton calls ‘the whole person.’ ”

COMMISSIONS

This House of Peace

Ralph M. Johnson

In 2008, Ralph M. Johnson's "This House of Peace" was commissioned for the 2008 opening of Sacred Heart Medical Center at RiverBend in Springfield, Oregon and dedicated to the caregivers at PeaceHealth. SFYCA participants performed the work at RiverBend in their spectacular lobby. The text weaves together the actual words of family members who stayed in the medical center's family guest house while their loved ones were in the hospital, and a "healer's prayer" adapted by the composer from a poem by English clergyman and writer, David Adam. Along with his work in composition, Johnson serves as director of worship and music at Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd in Minneapolis.

Paume doux lit froissé

Stanford E. Scriven

In 2012, Stanford Scriven, an SFYCA alum (2006, 2007) and St. Olaf graduate was commissioned by OBF in honor of SFYCA 15th Anniversary. "Paume doux lit froissé" was underwritten by generous donors Joan Kropf and Alan Yordy. Scriven is an avid composer as well as a performer. Scriven currently lives in Portland, Oregon and is the founder and principal of Northwest Tenant Group.

Falling Into Mercy

Kim André Arnesen

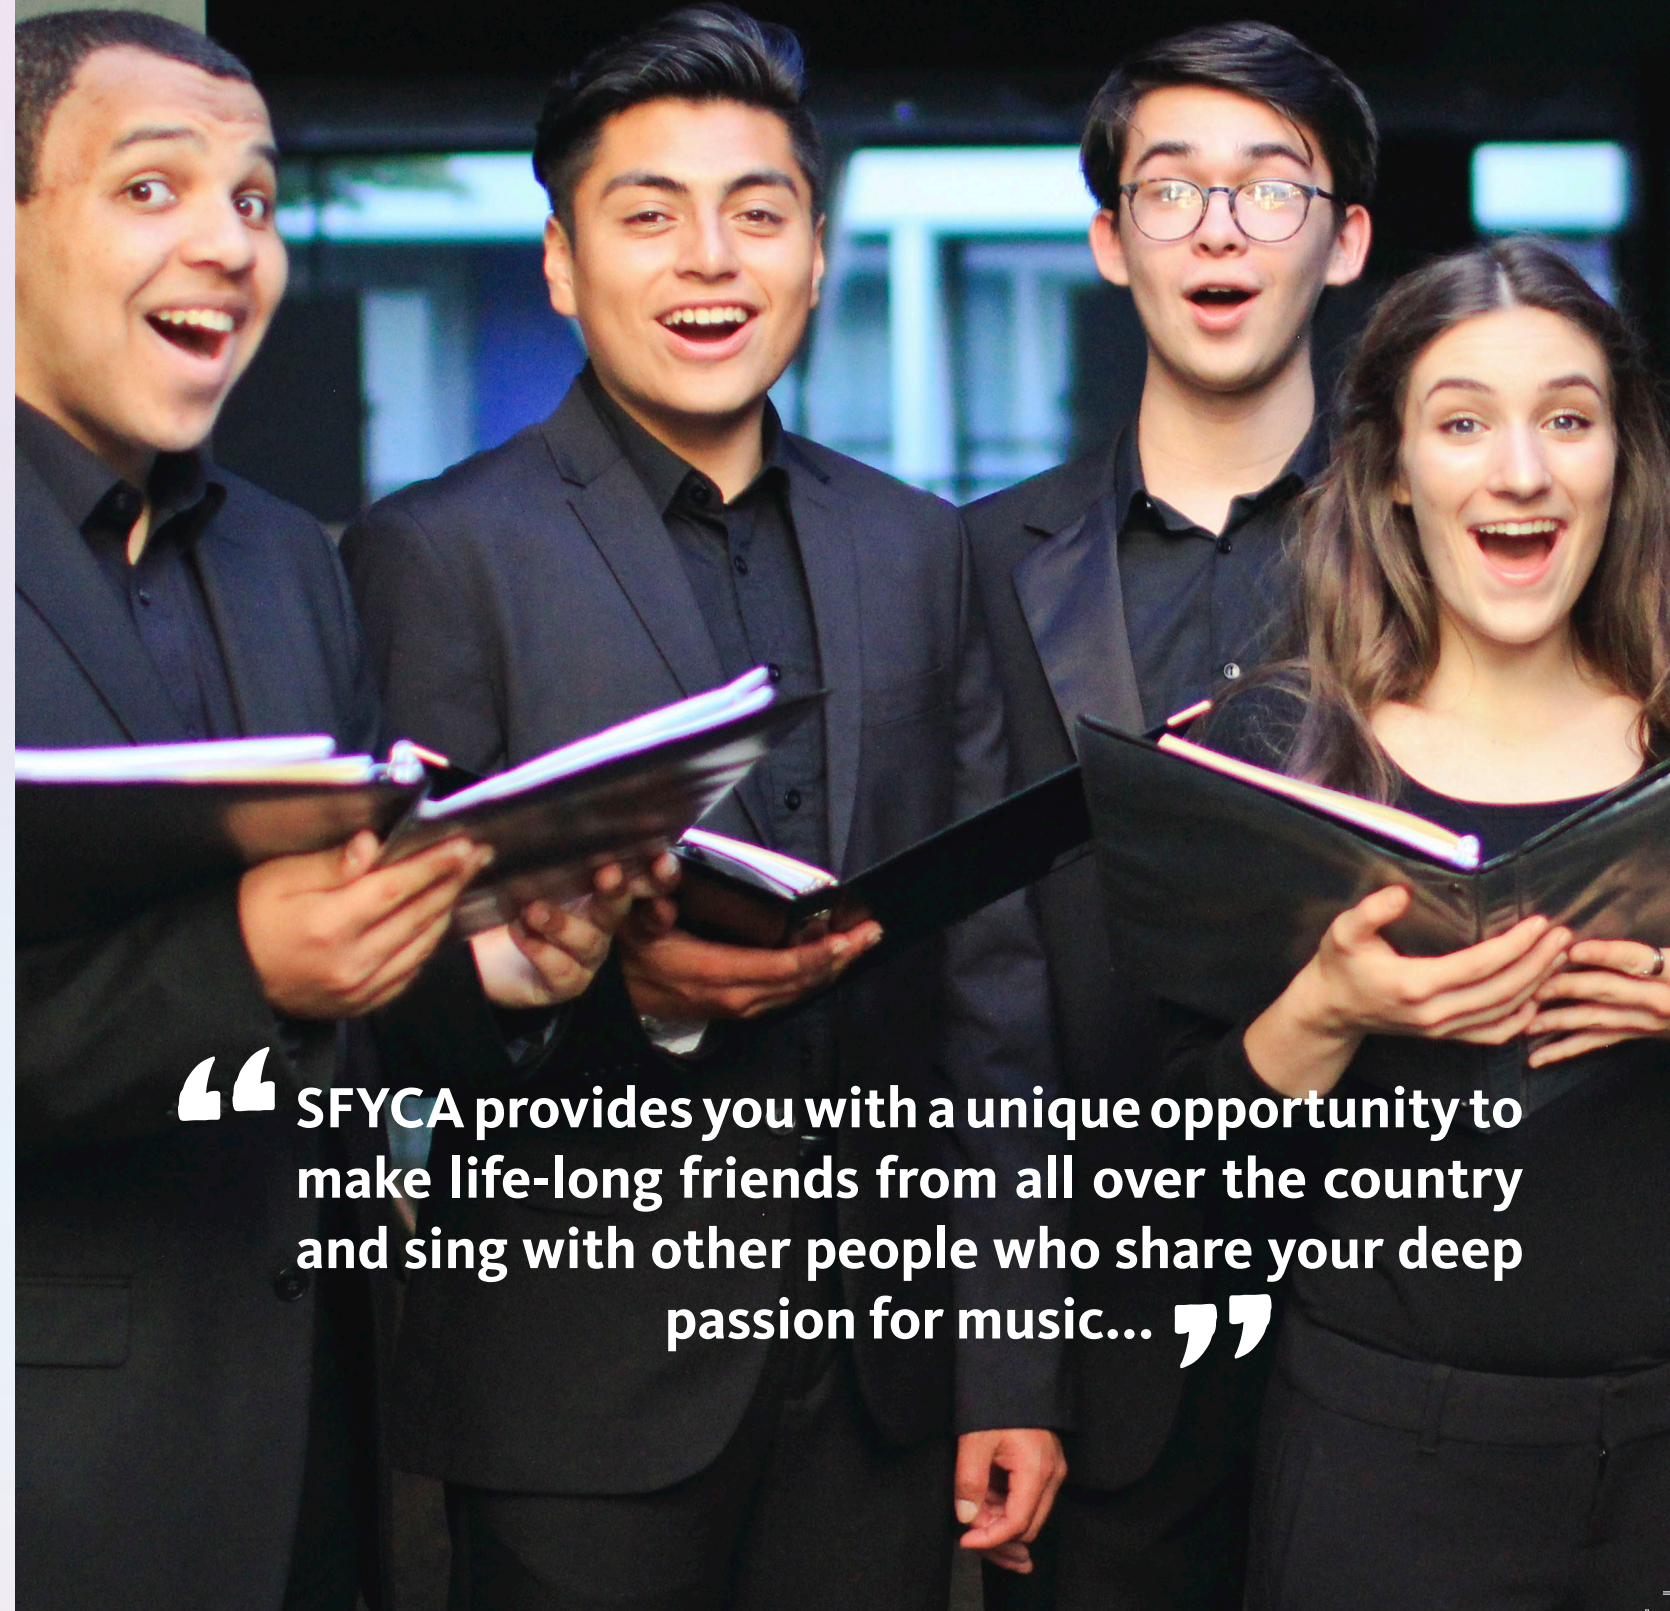

For the 20th anniversary of SFYCA in 2017, OBF commissioned "Falling Into Mercy" for chorus and piano. The Norwegian-born Arnesen primarily writes for choir and is associated with Anton Armstrong through performances of his works by the St. Olaf Chorus. His pieces are featured on a number of recordings, including a Grammy-nominated performance of his Magnificat. The text was written by Welsh-Scot poet Euan Tait from whom Arnesen has set many of his choral works.

“... this amazing program is shaping lives...”

Memories and Impacts

Being part of the inaugural year! Being dubbed “The Burgundy Ladies” by Dr. Armstrong, having movement workshop with Therees in the morning and having a BREAKTHROUGH while rehearsing with movement (an incredible experience!), getting to sing with the OBF Chorus of adults and learning from professionals, being conducted by Maestro Rilling, the fellowship with all of the Youth Choral Academy Members - too many great memories!

My experience was life-altering in that I decided to go to college for music (and theater) across the country. Through the YCA I developed more of an appreciation and desire for a professional career in the arts. This has led me to a successful career as an Arts Administrator and I am confident that it ultimately put me on the path to work at my dream organization, The Nation’s Cultural Center, The John F Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, DC. This is where I have been for the past 12 years. It was an absolute honor and privilege to work with Dr. Armstrong and so many others. Thank you so much for the opportunity many years ago.

- Singing in Stuttgart with Helmuth Rilling
- Singing with St. Olaf at the White House for the President
- Being a first-generation college student in my family

Memories and Impacts

I loved conducting “To the First of My Lovers” by Sydney Carter, arr. Craig Hella Johnson in 2016. It is such a joyful piece of music. We happened to have a student in the academy who was a fantastic recorder player and covered a wonderful obligato in the final verse, and there were a handful of singers covering handbells as well, and of course the fantastic Sandy Holder on piano. It’s a piece that expresses gratitude for all the relationships and friends we have throughout our lives and, without any grief or sadness, acknowledges the wonder of how those relationships change and grow, fade naturally, some lasting forever. More generally, I love thinking about all the young musicians we served in SFYCA over the decades, especially teenagers from low-income families, students that grew up in diverse communities of color, and high school seniors who went on to be first-generation college students.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

Prepare by asking others for help and biting off small chunks every day to make sure you’re going to record or provide an excellent audition. You don’t have to be a perfect singer or professional-in-training. In fact, it’s really exciting to hear auditions from singers who are beginning their journey of vocal growth and taking a chance by auditioning.

Memories and Impacts

Auditioning for a solo and knowing that I would get it because my voice blended so well with the tenor singing the associated duet. And Dr. Armstrong’s Minnesota “o”s. It’s amazing to get to make music with so many musicians all together at the same time!

Memories and Impacts

Too many to share. Singing the Brahms Requiem for the first and second time. Jamming on the Silva stage with Bobby McFerrin. Dancing with Therees, being part of the creation of such a meaningful group. Helming Rilling’s face during the St. Mathew Passion. And of course, Anton Armstrong inspiring me to be a complete human, and showing me what music is all about. Thank you Dr. A. I went to a college I never would have considered. I chose music as my career path. Pretty much every part of my life is influenced by Oregon Bach Festival.

- I sing regularly with Jeff Goldblum and the Mildred Snitzer Orchestra, and was featured on his last record with George Kahn Jazz & Blues Revue
- I have written four books on vocal technique and recently relocated to Portland, Oregon

Memories and Impacts

My favorite memory is the power of singing in a strong choir with an incredible director. The sound of the voices surrounding me and the challenging repertoire made the experience so mentally and emotionally stimulating. It deepened my passion for voice. Also, the great sense of community amongst the students. My entire life has been shaped by music. It has taken me around the world, and I have built relationships that I will always treasure.

Memories and Impacts

The entire experience was an extremely unique and memorable time in my musical journey. I was 16 years old, arranging and directing my own fledgling choral groups, absorbing everything I could from Dr. Armstrong’s expertise, and hoping one day to become a choral conductor myself. I fully expected to pursue choral conducting in college, and while my path went in a different direction musically, I retained all the benefits of the musical experience in the choral academy. I still remember and reflect on that time.

Getting chills from “If Music be the Food of Love” every single time. Dr Armstrong asking us to sing in various color shades and hearing the difference it made! Body singing with Dr Hibbard. I’m still using what I learned 20 years ago. It’s one of my fondest memories of high school. It influenced my college degree (and likely helped me be accepted to the music program), gave me lifelong friends, and provided world-class instruction.

Memories and Impact

Performing the Brahms Requiem with Helmuth Rilling conducting. Everything I learned from Anton Armstrong. When I participated in SFYCA, I was a student at a rural Washington high school with only very limited life experiences, mainly musical. I graduated high school and attended the University of Portland. I was selected to study abroad in Salzburg, Austria, an experience I was attracted to because of the international/broadening SFYCA experience. During my year, I became fluent in German and studied voice under Cornelia Prestel of the Mozarteum and gave several solo performances in Salzburg. I graduated and was selected for the Congress Bundestag Young Professionals Exchange and spent another year overseas in Germany, focused on government but still performing and studying music. These experiences I directly attribute to my SFYCA exposure and adventures, and they also led me to a successful professional career I remain in today. I have a grand piano in my home and now have three musical talented young children. My husband and I are returning to Salzburg in a few months. I am extremely thankful for the broadening experience SFYCA provided and how it steered me to where I am today.

Memories and Impact

I remember back when we sang “My Love’s Like a Red, Red Rose,” the tenors and basses came in loud and proud, and Dr. Armstrong used that moment to tell us that a true show of strength isn’t power, it’s choosing tenderness. I’ve thought of it many times since. It showed me what a truly professional choir experience was like, and stretched my capacity for what was possible, musically.

Memories and Impacts

I simply can't choose one favorite memory. It has to be two: Singing Brahms' "Ein Deutches Requiem" with the Festival Chorus presented both musical and emotional challenges. Singing with the professional chorus gave me a glimpse into what other opportunities might be available to me as a singer after high school and also pushed me to explore a masterwork more deeply than any other piece I had encountered. To this day, I distinctly remember the gratitude and pride I felt performing next to Therees Hibbard and the huge hug we shared at the end of the performance. It is still such a special moment. The other memory that stands out is singing with Bobby McFerrin. Mr. McFerrin took time with every singer to ask about our lives and make a connection. Singing with him opened up a whole new world of possibilities for me and allowed me to feel brave enough to explore different vocal timbres and sounds in my own music-making. His creativity and humanity are inspirational. I have always loved singing in choir. I had the great fortune of growing up with a father who was an inspirational choral director. I have always felt most at home singing with others. SFYCA broadened my perspective and helped me make connections with others who felt the same way. It showed me that "home" can truly be both a place and a feeling. I became a choral music educator to hopefully help foster that sense of community and belonging in others that I was fortunate enough to experience through my time singing with SFYCA. Beyond my profession, SFYCA brought me some of my best friends. Three bridesmaids in my wedding were friends from YCA. We've gone on to live in different countries, have children of our own, and cycle through partnerships and careers. The bonds we created in SFYCA are some of the most precious in my life.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

I often think about friendships that I made during my time in YCA, some of which continue today. Professionally, participating in YCA taught me from a young age what it means to be a professional: the discipline required, the focus it demands in and outside of rehearsal, but also the incredible payoff of making music at the highest level. YCA was my first taste of the professional music world: it was a chance to not only work with luminaries of choral music, but to see how the world's best conductors, orchestral musicians, and singers engage with their work. I use those lessons today every time I sit down to write music.

All these years later, I've been known to share Dr. Armstrong quotes and lessons with my current students, and I often talk about my SFYCA experience when discussing the power of making music with others. I have so many amazing memories. My experience with SFYCA was hugely impactful for me as a high school musician. It gave me a sense of the vastness of the music world outside of my high school classroom. For one, working with Bobby McFerrin as a high school sophomore was a dream come true, and most certainly shaped the trajectory of my career! I also appreciated the way Dr. Armstrong and Maestro Rilling treated us like adult professionals. I remember feeling for the first time like I could see myself inside of the music industry as a participant, rather than an observer. Meeting other singers from other parts of the state was also really special, and the bonds formed during those weeks are ones I still carry with me.

Movement//Bodysinging was so uncomfortable at first in my self-conscious teenage body, but it quickly became one of my favorite things, and I LOVED the Patron Dinner and getting to connect with patrons. I sat at a table one year with a man who shared an amazing story about how he had drowned in the Willamette River when he was young and was eventually resuscitated. He gave me a copy of a newspaper article that was in the paper about him at the time. I still have it! My time in SFYCA was not only a phenomenal musical experience that raised the bar for me in terms of technical ability and musicianship, it also help shape me as a person. The high expectations held of us for musical and personal integrity was deeply motivating for me. I carried the sense of responsibility and leadership that I gained from SFYCA back to my high school and to other areas of my life.

I have so so so many. As a participant, I have really fond memories of performing with and learning from our guest artists—Cantus, Maria Guinand, and Andre Thomas. Dr. A shaped this glorious choir instrument, and then these guest artists got to step in and take us to new places musically, socially, and spiritually. It was exhilarating and life-shaping. And, of course, being conducted by Helmuth Rilling was just incredible. Most memorable for me was being blown away by the beauty of his tempo changes during Mendelssohn's Psalm 42. As a staff member, particularly memorable was witnessing Vijay Gupta come to speak and play for the SFYCA choir. The choir was so inspired and uplifted by his music and his servant-spirit artistry/activism. Participating as a musician in SFYCA formed the model of what I believe music can and ought to be—a place where artistry meets service. Music that moves us towards greater honesty and connection. SFYCA folks are some of my very favorite humans, and knowing that all these people are out there in the world, walking so many varied paths, is a source of great comfort and joy for me.

I'll never forget a specific moment in Bodysinging: We were close to the end of our time in the SFYCA, and were preparing Bach's Singet dem Herrn with Maestro Rilling. Dr. Hibbard had been leading us through stretches and across-the-floor exercises, and she played a recording of Singet. We started applying the same techniques we'd been practicing, but this time we linked arms in our long lines. Suddenly, we were moving with the music, some of us singing along, and moving together without any sense that we were pulling or pushing one another. It was an incredible moment of synergy where the choir was utterly united. Our study of the music with Dr. Armstrong and Maestro Rilling, of our bodies with Dr. Hibbard, and how they support one another to express the music was an incredible moment of synergy where the choir was utterly united.

As Chorus Manager, I remember all the moments of anxiety in trying to keep the students of the SFYCA happy, healthy and supportive of one another as a community. That said, my favorite memory is an experience I had every year in watching the students transform from a random assortment of singers from across the country, into the SFYCA. I think the SFYCA teaches students that the best and most important music is music that is made with their entire body, mind, and spirit. That isn't achievable unless all involved are supporting and caring for each other. Each year, the ADs and I had a front row seat to seeing students come to the deep understanding that the music they were making was about more than just beautiful sound; the music of the SFYCA teaches students how to make music that can sustain themselves and the people around them.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

Do it. You'll make friendships you'll cherish for the rest of your life. You'll make music that is more important in many ways than any other music you make for the rest of your life.

I vividly remember singing Bach's "Der Geist hilft unser Schwachheit auf." During one of the rehearsals, Anton admonished us to dance while singing it. This reminder that Bach's music is full of movement and joy has always stayed with me. It made me more passionate about choral singing. I had always been more interested in musical theater and stage performance, but there was something unique about performing at the level that SFYCA did that made me realize that choral music could be just as compelling and dramatic as musical theater. I think it taught me something about the many varied ways that music can tell stories. This is something I talk about with my students all the time in music history classes.

There are many. I loved singing the Brahms Zigeunerlieder. Another is singing the "Pie Jesu" solo for our Faure Requiem. I remember Anton chose to have three of us sing it because he heard us warming up together for the audition and liked how we sounded. We were helping each other prepare and came together in support, which multiplied the opportunity for all of us. This is a lesson I have learned repeatedly - that investing in your individual artistry and not worrying about "being the best" will always get you farther.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

Be patient. I highly recommend practicing how you're going to audition before you do it! If you're auditioning in person, find someone else to sing in person for. If you're auditioning on tape (which we do more and more in the musical theater industry), practice setting up and making some practice tapes before you have to do the real one.

Memories and Impacts

The conducting workshops with Maestro Rilling. It was always like watching a genius outside of time. It solidified my love for high-caliber music in performance. I could not imagine my life without the ensembles with which I currently sing, and the impact from SFYCA is and was a cornerstone in the journey towards where I am today.

Memories and Impacts

I remember playing Frisbee with friends on the lawn outside of the dorms we stayed in and sharing meals with friends. Participating in YCA and working with Dr. A have shaped my personal philosophies and moral compass. I grew so much as a person in the summers I spent there. I attended St. Olaf College directly as a result of attending SFYCA for 4 years, where I later taught for 2.5 years. The connections I have with music, with St. Olaf, Dr. A, and Dr. Hibbard have been incredibly meaningful for me, especially while I was teaching French at St. Olaf. Thank you.

Memories and Impacts

I believe it was the first official year YCA was named after the Stangeland Family. We were honored to be apart of this fancy dinner with several donors and executives of OBF and share during that time our experience and what being apart of the organization meant to us. It was the first fancy elegant dinner I had had in life and I was so nervous to speak to what I considered at the time were “rich people!” I learned really quickly that they were sweet, kind human beings who just wanted to support a great cause. It was an integral piece in making me the human being and musician I am today!

Memories and Impacts

It all happened on an early June 2020 day in the height of the pandemic. Two SFYCA alums reconnect in a “rare avis” moment. Madisen Hallberg (SFYCA alumna and PSU graduate) was shooting a video performance for her school’s virtual graduation ceremony when Onry happened to be walking by. Having heard her voice from across the park, Onry asked if he could join her. A duet transpired, that in turn, went viral resulting in coverage by a whole host of local, national, and international media outlets including The Kelly Clarkston Show, The Today Show, NPR, ABC World News Tonight, and the BBC.

I will always treasure the long afternoons in that lecture hall with Dr. Armstrong—I had never had the opportunity to work in such detail before, and I just remember how the hours flew by, polishing the tiniest details. And probably the moment we walked off stage after the concert my first year in 2006, hugging my colleagues, celebrating, crying—I think one picture of me as an emotional mess made the back of a CD, haha! I’m not sure I would have pursued music as seriously as I did until my experience at SFYCA. It set the highest bar for the kind of excellence that is possible through meaningful collaboration and hard work. The friends I made, the lessons I learned, and the memories I still cherish from that time are things I will be forever grateful for.

Singing in a concert with Garrison Keillor and doing an impromptu rehearsal with him in the Barnhart Lounge. I also loved the friendships I made and having the opportunity to sing with a choir that was the best with which I had ever sung. As someone who did not end up employed in music, I am so incredibly thankful to be able to say that I was a part of such an intensive musical experience. It gave me the opportunity to experience what that professional life might be like, and while my career took a different path, it continued to shape the way music plays a role in my life. The relationships I made during that time and the musical repertoire that I was a part of will never leave my memories.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

It is absolutely worth it. This academy is life-changing. The musical opportunities are unbeatable and the friendships and fun that go along with it make the experience an unforgettable one. My favorite SFYCA memory is having small group theory classes outside. Sunshine makes the hard stuff better! My experience at SFYCA helped me understand how to pace myself vocally and energy wise in rehearsals to make sure I stayed vocally healthy and ready for the performance. This is very applicable to my career as a professional musician now and an important skill to learn early on.

Memories and Impacts

Being surrounded by the absolute best singers in the world for over a week. There was a moment where we were singing Jesus Christ the Apple tree and I was just overwhelmed by emotion. It was absolutely breathtaking. And all of this was done by KIDS! Definitely the highlight of my childhood. I forever love the SFYCA! It helped me grow into the musician I became. I made incredible friendships that I still hold dear today. Those 10 days in the dorms taught me so much discipline and courage. Singing for 8 hours a day is no easy task, let alone for a kid. It's so worth it in the end.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

Don't hesitate. I was very lucky and only prepared for two weeks before auditioning. I had never sang before that. I hadn't a prayer in making it, however I did. You'll meet people that you'll keep close to your heart forever. It's such an incredible tool for building young adults. You'll meet incredibly famous musicians and directors, and be part of something that the whole world can enjoy. Just do it.

Memories and Impacts

Upon being accepted to SFYCA, I fundraised for my trip. Shortly after, I hopped on my very first flight and flew cross country from Georgia to Oregon. Alone. As nervous as I was of the unknown, I decided I wanted to be a sponge and soak up every single experience. I engaged in conversation with my peers which led to making genuine friendships that continue to this day. I also observed constantly! I watched the professional singers, the conducting students, and the orchestral musicians. I fully committed to studying every movement of bodysinging, and I studied my scores in between walking to rehearsals, and I worked hard to apply all that I learned in rehearsals. I was so inspired to watch world-class musicians create. And then we sang Ralph Vaughn William's, "Serenade to Music".... It was finally my time to collaborate with the same musicians. At that moment, I decided I would be completely vulnerable in committing to the music, not for myself, but for changing the lives of others. I was so inspired by the art form of vocal music. So what is the greatest impact of all of this? The experience of SFYCA planted a seed of fearlessness within me that would continue to sprout for years to follow.

Memories and Impacts

The 2010 SFYCA was an anniversary year in which they brought out Bobby McFerrin to perform some of his vocal arrangements with us high school kids. The music was incredibly complicated, and it took dozens of hours for each of us in the choir to get our parts ready. To this day, I remember how it felt; the energy backstage after the performance was the same as if we had just finished performing the half-time show at the Super Bowl. I also will always remember how fun it was living in the Oregon dorms with the other choir kids. We all became best friends in a matter of days, which is an experience you won't find just about anywhere else. Programs like SFYCA are so necessary. Passions and hobbies go away if nobody is there to nurture them with positive feedback and validation. SFYCA undoubtedly gave me the validation I needed to move forward in my career, knowing that my skills and interests had value.

Two concerts stand out: Yo-Yo Ma and Thomas Quasthoff. And I'll never forget the 4th of July we spent improvising with Bobby McFerrin! But my favorite memories are from rehearsals with Dr. Armstrong. We took such care with the music and with ourselves. Some favorite pieces: "Christ the Appletree," Bach's B minor Mass. I still sing in choir today (and sang in college, and hope to sing always!) because of SFYCA. My experiences those three summers formed my sense of choral music as discipline and respite, collective and individual, embodied and sacred. And that formation has, in turn, impacted the rest of my life—how I think about community, beauty, and creative practice.

Memories and Impacts

I remember us rehearsing and performing Bernstein's Chichester Psalms and Bach's Herz und Mund und Tat und Leben with Dr. Armstrong. I will never forget the impression that experience made on me. I fell absolutely in love with the music we were preparing, as well as the new friends I was singing with. My high school choir back home was very good, but I had never sung in a choir quite like SFYCA! Dr. Armstrong knew how to push us to be the best musicians and people that we could be. I got a taste of what it's like to be in a professional choir, and it was such an exciting and rewarding experience. I remember meeting a fellow member of the bass section and having an instant connection. Little did we know, we were going to end up being college roommates for all 4 years, and friends still to this day!

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

Do it! My time in SFYCA was one of the most formative experiences in my development as a musician, choral singer, and human being, and I'm so glad that I applied. It fired my passion for choral music, and helped me realize that I wanted to become a professional singer. Memories and Impacts

Impossible to have just one. The community of people that came together each summer for the most incredible experiences and fun. Walking from Barnhart each day, laughing with friends, seeing amazing concerts, becoming myself, and many more amazing things. YCA was the place where I fully discovered my love for music. Coming to Eugene for the first time and being surrounded by 70 other people who think and act just like me; there is nothing more important than finding your community. I felt like I belonged and that no one was above or below anyone else. Everyone was kind and gentle, the music making was extraordinary—especially for a student. I have never encountered anything quite like it again and honestly, I don't think I ever will.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

It is a lot of work, and the financial barrier can be an issue—but the YCA will always make it work. I was trepedatious going into YCA my first time, but after experiencing even just the first day, I would never have done anything else. YCA was where I discovered myself and some of the best memories / friends I have ever had.

Memories and Impacts

My favorite memory was while performing Bach's Der Geist hilft unser Schwachheit auf, BWV 226 under Helmuth Rilling—I had the majority of the alto part memorized (cause I loved it) and we made eye contact during the show for a solid 20 seconds and he looked so surprised that I didn't need my music and was just following him. He even stopped conducting for a moment before picking back up! I learned that I was way more capable of taking on challenges as a musician than I ever had felt before.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

I'd tell anyone to try—even if you're not 100% confident. I was definitely intimidated to audition my first year but I'm so glad I did and that they saw the potential in my ability as a musician! I felt more confident going into my auditions, performances, etc for years to come because I made that initial choice to try and pushed my limits! It allowed me to grow and find confidence in myself. It made me fall in love with performing and creating music with a collective of people who all have the same goal—to inspire a feeling and create an experience!

Singing the Verdi Requiem in 2014. Still one of the best and most awe-inspiring performances of a major work that I have been a part of. SFYCA is why I have gone into music. Without it I would not have met Dr Armstrong, I would not have gone to St Olaf, and I would not have fallen in love with singing (at least to the point where I would make it a career). Simply put, I would not be recognizably Ian without SFYCA in my history.

Performing the Brahms Requiem—one of my favorite pieces I've ever sung. This performance was such a wonderful experience for me and it ignited so much passion in me for music!! SFYCA helped deepen my love for choral music SO much. I always loved choir, and my experience with SFYCA caused me to take it to a whole different level. I was accepted into the YCA my freshman year, and my musical skills that I gained that summer allowed me to advance my technique and knowledge so much farther than I would have otherwise. I then was accepted into my high school's top two choirs my sophomore year, and choir became my whole life until I graduated. I always struggled with school, but choir was the one thing that helped me to push through. I competed in solo competitions each year and I took home the mezzo soprano solo state championship my senior year. I'm so thankful for how YCA pushed me as a musician, and as a person.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

Do it!! I learned so much with SFYCA, and it was one of the most pivotal experiences for me in my musical journey.

Memories and Impacts

It's hard to pick just one! I remember one year, my roommate had a birthday during SFYCA. My friends and I made a plan to walk to the Dairy Queen and buy her an ice cream cake, and when we brought it back, we asked the Barnhart kitchen to store it for us. At dinner, we surprised her with it and quickly realized we had far too much cake for 5 people, so we invited anyone to have some. It was a really fun and special memory. SFYCA helped me realize my passion for music, and how deeply it plays a role in my life. I knew how much I loved music, but YCA convinced me to study it in college and impacted the school I chose to go to. The experience helped grow my confidence in so many ways. I felt like a stronger musician and better friend afterward. It was such a special experience I will never forget.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

SFYCA is truly one of the most special experiences I ever had the opportunity to participate in. I still feel nostalgic for the memories and music I shared 6 years ago. SFYCA can open so many doors for your future, and it changed my life in such an amazing way. I believe every singer who is passionate about singing should audition!

Open mic night, Plantasia performance, synchronized swimming when we lifted James above the sheet and all got blisters from crawling on our knees. Oh, or that time I wrote I FEEL FRESH all over Kendra's copy of Brahms Requiem and she almost died of laughter during a dress rehearsal. OMG and that time Natalie and Kendra made Andrew the AD an FOL and he almost cried. The cuddle puddle in the Winnie the Pooh blanket because that rehearsal room is COLD. I would not have studied music without this experience. Life long friends, so many amazing things!

Every year I would spend Fourth of July at OBF and there we would be picnics on the lawn and another year we performed for an event. This was a way to spend time with my friends that I still talk to today. I've made friends for life and was given a music experience like no other. Being able to be part of a choir that cares so much for each other and also being able to experience the solo side as I performed in the soloist concert two of my three years. It gave me range for music experience but also was the most fun I had all summer.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

Talking and chatting with friends on the walks to and from rehearsal! I loved seeing if anything was new that day between buildings and enjoyed finding things that never changed. I still think about my time in SFYCA whenever my college's choir is rehearsing something particularly difficult! If I could learn an entire Bach piece in a week, I can learn twice as much in a month, right?

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

OBF is what inspired my sister to go to St Olaf and then it also inspired me to go to St Olaf. I also made lifelong friends through the SFYCA.

The classes/rehearsals, as well as the talent show. One of our wonderful tenors sang "Take on Me" and it was amazing. We also gathered a small group and had different voice parts sing the opposite one. Bass singing soprano and tenors switched with altos or something like that for the song "Let the River Run." It was hilarious! Truly the fondest memories of my high school experience! The instructors made me a better person. I learned things I could not have learned elsewhere!

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

You will not regret it! It changed my life! I love my connection to music more because of it! The most fun you will ever have with a choir! You can make lifetime friends! You will learn things you would not anywhere else!

Memories and Impacts

My favorite memory is an example of Dr. Armstrong's broad command of language paired with his total earnestness: once he told us all that "you sound like you have a pickle stick up your butts," but we all knew exactly what he meant and didn't bat an eyelash. Another funny memory is when I was doing so much diction on a "P" that I sprayed the boy ahead of me with a fine mist of spit! SFYCA gives me memories of how music can lift you up as your whole self into beauty, excellence, and camaraderie simultaneously.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

Dr. Armstrong rehearses better than probably any conductor you have ever worked with; it's worth it; and this choir works at such a deep comprehensive level into the music that you'll be able to execute it and experience it at a level of excellence that wholly engages you.

Dr. Armstrong made a point each year of pulling my brother and me aside to call a mutual friend, Mrs. Bolick, and wish her a happy birthday; the most satisfying rehearsals I've ever had in my life; pod meetings with Chelsea Young were the best; open mic nights. I know what real quality is in choral music, and I know what it means not to compromise. You are capable of more than you realize.

Advice about auditioning for SFYCA

I don't think there is any better or more edifying choral singing experience you can get, especially in high school. The dedication to quality of music and the camaraderie that develops over those ten days truly shapes you as a person.

I still think about SFYCA a lot, I miss the people and the conductors and I miss the hard work everyone put in the make sure the songs were the best that we could perform them.
